It is with justifiable pride in the patriotic records made by the members of the Class of 1903 Princeton in the recent war, that we publish this summary.

No record of this Great War can be complete and this one undoubtedly falls far short of justice. It is probable that names of men who did important things do not even appear.

Every member has been urgently solicited to furnish his report, and where he left blank his "War Record" report, we have been forced to omit the name. Otherwise, there has been recorded here, all that was given, and as it was given.
